CHICAGO, March 7.—The Western States Passenger association which has been in session here for three days adjourned this morning. It came out during the meeting that some of the roads connected with the associated lines had been selling irregular forms of tickets in such ways as to enable scalpers to reduce the established tariff rates in the western territory. Chairman Abbott at once communicated with the managers of the lines whose tickets had been improperly issued, and before the close of the meeting he received a reply promising that the irregularity would be thoroughly investigated and stopped. SENATE.

DENVER, March 7.—The senate indulged in two quite lengthy and interesting debates to day.

Immediately after disposition of the journal, Senator Noble charged that certain committee reports were purposely held back and stated that he was authoritatively informed that H. B. No. 30, providing for a constitutional convention, had been held out for ulterior purposes.

He, who was directly affected by those charges, emphatically denied them.

After considerable heated discussion between Noble, Betts and Newell, a resolution laying the motion on the table to the effect that all committees be required to report at once on all bills in their possession, was carried.

During the afternoon session a resolution was introduced endorsing Senator Teller and ... members of congress favoring the passage of a ... railroad bill.

This brought out a lengthy debate. The resolution was opposed by Senator Carpenter and others, and was finally indefinitely postponed.

HOUSE.

The house passed upon a number of bills in committee of the whole and received adverse reports of committees.

During the afternoon session the Mitchell case again came up and a resolution was introduced expelling Mitchell from the house. The resolution caused considerable discussion and was adopted by the necessary two thirds vote. Adjourned.

Austin Corbin president of the Reading and Long Island railroad companies, is seriously ill.

The democratic senators held a caucus yesterday and appointed a committee to confer with a republican committee to arrange the list of committees.

CABINET OFFICERS.

The Day at the Departments Devoted to Visitors.

Postmaster General Wanamaker Visits the Various Offices.

Democratic Incumbents Handing in Their Resignations.

Coon to be the Assistant Secretary of the Treasury.

At the Departments.

WASHINGTON, March 7.—Secretaries Blaine, Proctor and Tracy came to their offices early this morning but had to give up the idea of attending to official business owing to the pressure of visitors. Russell Harrison with a party of Montana people made the rounds of the departments. They called on the secretaries only to pay their respects and had no designs upon offices. No official changes have yet been recorded in subordinate offices but Walker Blaine occupied the seat vacated by First Assistant Secretary Ryes in the department of state and Thomas Sherman, who formerly served as Blaine's private secretary, was endeavoring to protect the secretary from the inroads of the public. Both men have voluntarily taken hold to help smooth the way for the new administration, but in neither case has an appointment been made.

Secretary Noble arrived at the interior department a little after 9 o'clock and from that hour until late this afternoon was kept busy receiving visitors. A large number of senators and representatives were among his callers. Postmaster General Wanamaker also arrived at his department early accompanied by First Assistant Postmaster General Stevenson and Chief Clerk Roy. He visited the offices of the bureau chiefs and other officials and acquainted himself with the general location and arrangement of the offices of the several divisions of the department. All of the higher officials tendered their resignations and without accepting any Wanamaker has requested them to continue in their respective offices for the present at least. A large number of senators, representatives and others called during the day.

The Strike.

ASPEN, Colo., March 7.—A strike that for a variety of reasons is the most important made in Aspen mountain for years occurred at the 830 foot level of the Franklin mine at an early hour this morning. The discovery was made in a drift running from the bottom of the shaft, in which a breast of ore six feet wide was exposed. The ore is heavily impregnated with native silver and assays several hundred ounces per ton. The discovery of mineral in a strong vein upon this plane of the mountain removes all doubts as to its continuity downward and will lead to a large amount of deep sinking during the present season. The town is almost wild over the find tonight. Among the owners in the Franklin are David H. Moffat and Sam Wood of Denver, and R. C. Brown of this city and Eben Smith of Leadville.

Fireman Killed.

ST. LOUIS, March 7.—As a shifting engine was hauling a Desota accommodation train to the union depot to-day it jumped the track and turned over on its side, carrying the engineer and fireman with it. The latter was killed and the engineer had one of his legs horribly crushed but probably lives. None of the passengers were hurt.

Le Caron Not a Member.

NEW YORK, March 7.—The executive council of the Fenian brotherhood held a meeting in this city to-day and adopted a resolution requesting the press to announce in their behalf that the spy Le Caron had never been a member of the Fenian brotherhood.

Man-of-War Wrecked.

LONDON, March 7.—The British man-of-war Sultan has been wrecked on the island of Comino in the Mediterranean. The captain and crew were saved. The Sultan was an iron armor plated vessel of 250 tons. She was temporarily attached to the Mediterranean squadron.

Opened to the Public.

The most splendid audience that ever assembled under a roof in Colorado Springs, both in character and numbers, ... to the feast of music that marked the opening of the First Presbyterian church last night. It was a memorable event, fittingly celebrated. People began to arrive as soon as the doors were opened and by 8 o'clock every seat in the spacious auditorium was taken. It was a grand, fine one that presented itself, the vaulted ceiling, the frescoed walls, the soft white chandelier lights, the hundreds of moving human beings and sweeping over all a flood of melody.

The concert was a very great success and the performers, as well as the numbers of the programme were happily selected for the occasion. The programme consisted of ten numbers and by request there were no encores, although nearly every selection deserved it. Dr. Gower of Denver was the organist, and his performance last night did not detract from his reputation as one of the great organists of America. He had five numbers on the programme, beginning the concert with "Prelude and Fugue" by Bach. The possibilities of this grand composition can hardly be attained on the organ on which it was given even by such a master hand as Dr. Gower. Perhaps Dr. Gower's most pleasing numbers were "The Caprice," by Guilmant, played as a substitute for Mr. Durkee's solo, and a "Concerto," by Handel.

Mrs. Merrill and Mrs. Levering sustained the vocal part of the programme, Mr. Durkee who was announced, being unable to appear. Mrs. Merrill's two solos, the "Largo," by Handel, and "He Shall Feed His Flock," from Handel's oratorio "Messiah," were well received, as were both of Mrs. Levering's numbers, "Rejoice Greatly," from the "Messiah," and "Oh, Mighty Pens," from the "Creation." For the closing number of the concert they sang a duet, "The Angel," by Rubenstein. The singing of both of these ladies is familiar to Colorado Springs audiences, and they were both in splendid voice.

The concert demonstrated the splendid acoustic properties of the auditorium of the new church. This evening the members of the congregation and their friends will enjoy a social in the new building to congratulate one another upon its completion, and on Sunday the dedicatory services will be held.

MONUMENT MATTERS.

MONUMENT, March 7, 1889.

Mrs. A. E. Griffin, of Howard, Ill., is here on a visit to her son, J. W. Griffin our popular Rio Grande agent.

Prof. Locke is entertaining our people with original and artistic glass blowing. A large pipe is to be given to the handsomest gentleman in Monument on Friday night. We expect to see a goodly number of handsome men on the mourner's bench on Friday night.

The church people held a plain pot social at the residence of Mrs. H. E. Ford on Tuesday. The spacious house was crowded to its utmost capacity. An elegant supper was served and a neat sum for the church was realized. The ... who attended came away well satisfied with the pleasant manner in which they had been entertained.

A prize of fifty dollars for the best essay written upon the "Divide" is offered by the Divide board of trade. We understand that the prize is to be contested for by W. E. Meek, M. F. Olds and R. B. Ochs. Mr. Ochs has written a very interesting letter to his paper, the Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times, on the subject of Colorado, which we had the pleasure of reading.

Our enterprising grain and lumber man E. H. Talbert, and Miss Mary Howells, of Gwillimville, were married at Cheyenne on Wednesday, February 27. The bride is one of Gwillimville's fairest daughters and is a young lady of amiable disposition and pleasing manners, while the groom is in every way worthy of the prize he has secured. Mr. and Mrs. Talbert are housekeeping on their ranch near Gwillimville. May their happiest anticipations for their future life be realized.

The work of surveying the ground for the lake now being dug here today by Surveyor Reid and his assistants from Colorado Springs. Hon. David McShane arrived on the morning train and is taking an active interest in the business. The Monument cemetery will also be surveyed and laid off into lots. Hitherto the dead were buried indiscriminately, no one has a lot, and families have in consequence thereof become badly mixed. Hereafter a certain sum will be required for each lot and the money derived therefrom will be used for the improvement of the cemetery.

The GAZETTE's readers will notice a new advertisement in this morning's paper offering property for sale in North Pueblo Heights. Some of the soundest money financially in the county are investing their money in Pueblo because they feel that it is to be a great city, and this property is one of the finest suburbs that has yet been placed on the market. The financial standing of the gentlemen connected with this project is a good guarantee of its success. Mr. Frank White one of the best men in Colorado at handling such matters is the agent of the property in Pueblo and Mr. R. Weir is the Mansion agent.

The great military drama, "The Union Spy," at the opera house, Saturday evening. Those who expect to attend will do well to secure their tickets to day as they are being taken rapidly. See the "Awkward Squad" and the funniest old negro character ever on the opera house stage. There will only be one presentation of the play.

At the meeting of railroad commissioners in Washington a resolution was passed looking toward the taking of some steps to have all passenger cars heated from the locomotive to prevent the loss of life by fire in case of accident. The commissioners should have added a clause to provide for the lighting of cars in the same way. Electric lights should be substituted for gas and oil. The locomotive power can easily be used in operating a dynamo that would supply any number of cars with electricity. When heat and light are required by law to come from the locomotive or other single source, the horrors of a holocaust which attend nearly every railroad wreck will be almost entirely done away with, and the loss of human life will be greatly lessened.

THE NAVY PORTFOLIO.

No man in the outgoing administration is more to be envied than William C. Whitney. He goes back to private life with the reputation of having been one of the ablest and most successful heads the navy department has ever had. The honor of having laid a solid foundation for the greatest navy in the world is his, and it is an honor which has been well earned. But after all Mr. Whitney has only just made a beginning. Upon the ability the energy and the enterprise of his successor must depend largely the success of a work in which the people are so deeply interested. There seems to be but little doubt that the gentleman in whose hands Benjamin Harrison has placed this important portfolio possesses the necessary qualifications for successfully carrying on the great work which Mr. Whitney began.

General Benjamin F. Tracy, to whom the great opportunity is presented of making a name for himself by carrying forward toward completion the infant navy, was born in Owego, N. Y., in 1830 and secured his education in the common schools of that town. After completing a course at the Owego Academy he entered the law office of Nathaniel W. Davis. He was early admitted to the supreme court bar and soon after became a candidate for district attorney of Tioga county which was then a democratic stronghold. Young Tracy, however, made a hard fight and was elected. Two years later he was re-elected, defeating Gilbert Walker, who was afterwards governor of Virginia. In 1861 Tracy was elected to the assembly and in 1862 he recruited the 109th and and 137th regiments receiving from Governor Morgan his commission as colonel in the former regiment. All through the war he served with conspicuous gallantry and received the brevet of brigadier general. In 1864 Colonel Tracy was active with his regiment in Burnside's corps of Grant's army, and in the battle of the Wilderness he led in the thick of the fight and was carried from the field utterly exhausted but he refused to go to a hospital and led his command in the three days' fight at Spotsylvania.

After the war General Tracy settled in New York and began the practice of law with the firm of Benedict, Burr and Benedict. He was appointed a judge of the court of appeals by Governor Cornell to fill an unexpired term and took high rank as a jurist. He was nominated to succeed himself, but, unfortunately, was carried down in the famous contest in which the late Judge Folger was defeated for governor. General Tracy was one of the counsel for the defense in the celebrated Beecher trial. In 1889 he was appointed United States district attorney and soon after was a candidate for district attorney of Kings county, but was defeated by James W. Ridgway. The new secretary of the navy has to day the enviable reputation of ranking among the first lawyers of the country. His past career would seem to indicate that he possesses extraordinary executive ability and he enters upon his new duties, inexperienced though he is, with the firm confidence of the people in his capacity to fill the office acceptably to the country and with honor to himself.

Centennial Celebrities.

America.

If General George Washington were to turn up at the centennial inauguration he would [illegible] familiar names, and probably faces, familiar and dear to him. On the 4th of March the great grandsons of his friends, and fellow laborers, Benjamin Harrison and Ephraim Blaine, were inducted into the highest executive offices. He would also find in Washington great grandsons of his vice president and successor, John Adams, and of his first sweetheart Mary Bland, who married Henry Lee, father of "Light Horse Harry."

It is pleasant to note the return to power of such good old colonial families as the Harrisons, the Blaines and the Lees. Surely the original American stock has held its own famously against adverse circumstances. The history of the Harrisons from the early colonist of the name, and first governor of Virginia in 1620, to the incoming president, has been sufficiently considered in the press and other columns. If achievement of fame ranks first in the category of greatness, the Harrison family is surely the highest in Christian countries. Without inherited prerogatives, without wealth without social adornments of person, without magnetic qualities or genius, the Harrisons have, by clear mindedness, by honesty, perseverance, and pluck, held high place in popular estimation from generation to generation, in direct line for nearly three centuries.

As become good republicans, the Blaines and their kin have risen up to the post distinction of the family. They have relied on the achievements of to-day for recognition. But the annalists of revolutionary history has bestowed to each Ephraim Blaine the rank of Robert Morris as second only to Washington in practical services to the patriot cause. Colonel Blaine was a valiant soldier. Not alone for bravery on the battle field is he entitled to fame, but for endurance and for intelligent discharge of duty so necessary to success during the dread dark winter at Valley Forge. The able performance of the most arduous task of averting famine and discontent went far toward saving the cause of Washington's army from disaster and disbandment. Honor to Colonel Blaine. Honor to a high place in the Valley of Washington!

Hon. James Blaine was no aristocrat and individual gentleman who inherited large estates in western Pennsylvania and led a life of ease. The great statesman Ephraim L. Blaine inherited his father's generous trait of life and expended his patrimony in the lavish hospitality of fashionable in those good old times, surely a far worthier use of riches than miserly hoarding or than speculative speculation. However it left the next generation of boys to hustle for the needed. Who of higher nature would not prefer a day as national favorite or premier to a cycle of rich men's notoriety with carping critics—the inherent curse of a Gould?

Early Times in Dallas.

St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

The custom of ushering in a new administration with a "grand ball" runs back almost to the establishment of a constitutional government. The first inaugural ball was given at the beginning of General Washington's second term in Philadelphia, in 1793. After the appointed committees had performed their duties and made all the arrangements, the following notice of invitation was made public.

The members of the senate and the house of representatives of the United States are respectfully invited to a ball, on the 4th of March, 1793, to be given by the Dancing Assembly, in honor of the unanimous re-election of George Washington, the president of the United States; the anniversary of the present form of government of the United States and a parting leave with the members of the present congress.

At the ball the constitutional fathers and revolutionary dames walked through the stately dances of the period.

The first inaugural ball given in Washington, then the new national capital, was in honor of President Madison's first installation in the executive office in 1809. This ball was given at what was then known as Long's hotel, and was described by a local chronicler as the most brilliant and crowded ever known in Washington. It was estimated that the company "exceeded four hundred" rather a small party, according to modern notions, but it seemed extraordinary in that day. There was dancing and a supper.

At Monroe's second inauguration in 1821 the next ball was given. It was under the auspices of the managers of the Washington assemblies, and though pronounced a great success the preparations were very simple as compared with later days.

For the inauguration of John Quincy Adams, in 1825, the ball preparations and arrangements were committed to prominent citizens. The only hall of any size then in the city was known as Carusi's saloon, now Keenan's Theatre Comique. There was dancing and refreshments, and though the limited space was crowded, the ball was a decided success.

On the occasion of President Jackson's first inauguration in 1829, there was a ball attended by many of the notables of that period. In 1833, at Jackson's second inauguration, there was a "grand ball" at Central Masonic Hall, on Louisiana avenue. As on previous occasions the crowd was too large for the size of the hall.

The ball which ushered in Van Buren's administration in 1837 was given at Carusi's Hall, and was "notably brilliant." Some of the "big bugs" of New York were active in getting it up, and they were determined to make it eclipse its predecessors.

Justice [illegible] McElroy, of Hosted was in the city yesterday.

Mr. Ed S. Alexander, Mrs. John Russell and Mr. Roy Russell left for Chicago last night on the Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe train.

Mr. George A. Rose and wife, of the firm of Rose & Quinlan of Chicago, are visiting in the city, the guest of Mr. E. C. Baker. Mr. Rose thinks the climate of Colorado is good enough for any one.

Mr. D. N. Herzer left for his home in Great Bend, Kas., yesterday. Mr. Herzer will return shortly to take charge of affairs at Cascade during the summer. He is largely interested in that popular resort.

The invitations for the fancy dress skating carnival to be given at Weber hall, by the Matt France Rose company, on Saturday evening, March 17th, are just [illegible]. Tickets are placed at 50 cents each and skates will be rented at 25 cents a pair.

Crandall and Shoemaker, of Buffalo, two of the new members of the ball team, have arrived in the city. There is talk of several exhibition games to be played next week. Probably two will be played in this city, two in Denver and two in Pueblo.

The sweet strains of the Salvation Army band frightened a horse on Huerfano street last night and caused him to run away. The buggy was picked up in front of the Park block, badly wrecked, but the horse shed his harness and when last heard of was still going toward Pueblo.

Mr. Emery P. Moon, of Hosted, has furnished us the following record of the weather for the week ending March 8th, 1888: Highest temperature, 66° on the 6th; lowest temperature, 18° on the 4th; weekly mean temperature, 36°. Prevailing direction of the wind, south, four days.

Arrangements are making for a series of "talks to boys," to be given by different citizens of the city in the Baptist church on next Friday afternoon. Special music will be provided. Admission will be by ticket. The talks and lectures will be duly announced. Let the boys of the city be on the lookout for these "talks."

Mr. John L. Hamilton has at his office photographs that will be of great interest to early comers to Colorado Springs. They were taken in the first years of the city's history. One of them is a view of Cheyenne mountain, taken from near where Mr. Irvine Howbert's home now stands, and shows an almost unbroken stretch of prairie. That little strip of prairie is worth several million dollars now.

Sneak thieves went into Browning & Evans second hand store on Huerfano street on Tuesday morning and stole about a hundred dollars worth of watches. The store was full of customers at the time. Thieves reached over the counter and took them from the top of the safe where they were lying. There were two gold watches and four silver ones in the lot. They have the numbers of most of the watches.

The spring term of the district court will begin on Monday, March 26th, and continue for three weeks. Both the dockets will be very heavy, especially the criminal docket, and it is doubtful if the civil docket will be reached. A special term will probably be held every some time during the summer. There are four murder trials to come up—Warden, from Buena Vista, on a charge of [illegible]; Dodson and Hatcher from Colorado City, and Kelly from Manitou Junction.

Alderman Skinner owns a quantity of confederate scrip in almost every denomination ever issued. He got it from confederate prisoners during the war. It is probably one of the best private collections in the country. He is also the owner of a piece of colonial scrip that must be very valuable. It is a two dollar bill issued in 1776. The paper is about five inches square and very coarse. The name of the printers, Hall & Sellers, is one of the most conspicuous features on it.

The Rumor Published in Several German Newspapers.

A Vessel Supposed to be the Nipsic Reported Sunk.

No Credence Placed in the Story at Navy Department.

[illegible] Battle

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Considerable excitement has been caused here by the cabled announcement of the publishing in several German papers of the report of a fight said to have occurred between the German corvette Olga and a United States man of war in Samoan waters. The report says the United States ship was sunk. The Nipsic, which is supposed to be the American vessel referred to in the German publications, is rated as a wooden vessel of the third class and carries six guns. The Vandalia and the Trenton, which have doubtless reached Samoa by this time, are also wooden vessels, carrying eight and ten guns respectively as their big batteries. Most of these guns are smooth bore, but naval officers say that at short range and against unarmed vessels such as the German boats now in Samoan waters these cannon are just as deadly as rifled ordnance. Under the German gun boats have also to a very forced the American fleet now at Apia is regarded as superior in offensive power. Moreover, its crews are fresh from the repair docks and its crews are strong in number.

[illegible] in the R[illegible]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Despite the denials of the report which appeared in the papers this morning to the effect that an American man-of-war had been blown up with all hands during a fight with the German corvette Olga at Samoa, the opinion here is strongly inclined to place reliance in the rumor and the people are greatly excited. Private advices received here to-night furnish strong grounds for belief in the truth of the report. These advices are that the New York Herald is in receipt of a telegram from James Gordon Bennett at Paris, confirming the substance of this morning's. It is also currently reported here that a telegram was received in Washington yesterday and that an officer at the Mare Island navy yard here confirms the report. Naval officers at this point say that the German gunboats that carry torpedoes, and that some of the [illegible] are now on the way to Samoa are supplied with these missiles.

The Herald's Account.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The New York Herald this morning prints three columns of comment relative to the reported sinking of the United States ship Nipsic at Samoa by the German cruiser Olga. This report is printed in the Herald of March 8 as a dispatch from Breslau, where the information of the encounter was first printed. The story is the basis of much comment, according to the Herald, in Washington where it came, and interviewed several naval officers with results printed in that paper which in substance is as follows:

Commodore Sickard had no knowledge of the Nipsic having been sunk by a German torpedo save such as is furnished by the Herald's Breslau dispatch. Referring to the torpedo armament of the German gunboats, Commodore Sickard said: "The working range of these torpedoes, to be fired with accuracy, is about 400 yards. The German navy use Schwartzkoff's torpedo, which is made in Germany and nowhere else. It contains about ninety three pounds of gun cotton equal in force to 300 pounds of gunpowder. They are launched from the side of a ship and, after being properly aimed, are shot into the water. They travel at the rate of twenty five knots per hour, and if the Nipsic was within a short distance of the Olga it would have been impossible for her to have gotten out of the way." Commodore Sickard said the Nipsic might have been in such a position that it was impossible for her to get out of range provided that the reported engagement actually took place. If such was the case it would fare very badly with her. Concluding the Commodore said: "The Trenton and the Vandalia must be there by this time and if anything should have happened to the Nipsic you may rest assured they will be heard from. Admiral Kimberly is a courageous officer and he will stand no nonsense, and if there is any trouble he will give an excellent account of himself."

Regarding the authenticity of the news of the encounter the Herald refers to the fact that a German ship with the news might have reached Auckland within four or five days of the occurrence, and cabled the fact to Germany while the American dispatch officer stationed there by the navy department would be obliged to await the arrival of the regular steamers.

[illegible] Not T[illegible]

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Great importance is given by the papers here to the rumor that an American man-of-war was sunk in Samoan waters in a fight with the German corvette Olga. No credence is given to the report at the steamship [illegible] which left here for Australia, February 9, touched at Tutuila the southern island of the Samoan group on February 25th, and arrived at Auckland March 3d, and had any engagement occurred at Apia she would probably have learned of the fact at Tutuila and carried the news to Auckland and the news would have been cabled from there.

No Official In[illegible]

WASHINGTON, March 8.—The story of an engagement between the German man of war Olga and an American man-of-war in the harbor of Apia is generally discredited at the navy department. No information upon the subject has been received at the department of state. It was said there that the news of an event of such a importance would surely reach the United States at least as soon as it would reach Germany.

[illegible] thy of Cr[illegible]

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Secretary Blaine this evening, in answer to an inquiry, said that the report of a conflict between the German and United States war vessels at Samoa was in his opinion unworthy of credit. He regarded it as a mere stock jobbing story having no

General Lew Wallace and Mr. Clark, son of Iowa, took lunch with President and Mrs. Harrison, after which the president gave a public reception, which on account of the large number of people who had assembled outside the White house was held upon the portico, the president quickly handing his personal guests as the crowd filed in left him. He then retired for a brief rest and subsequently gave an audience to one thousand of more persons who obtained access to the red room. No hand shaking was indulged by. The entire reception lasted from 1 30 to 2 30 o'clock. At a later hour Mrs. Harrison held a reception.

Windom at Work.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Secretary Windom assumed active charge of the treasury department to day and being busy with callers most of the day he found difficulty in transacting the necessary routine business. He informed an associated press reporter that the purchase of bonds would be continued for the present at least and added that he had not yet had time to give the subject the proper consideration. It is now regarded as practically settled that Chas. E. Coon of New York will be appointed assistant secretary of the treasury to succeed ex-Governor Thompson and that George C. Tichnor of Illinois, now special agent of the treasury, will be appointed assistant secretary to succeed Judge Maynard. It is expected that these names will be included in a number of nominations to be sent to the senate on Monday.

[illegible] Appropriations.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—During the Fifty-third congress just ended nearly ten million dollars were appropriated for the construction and improvement of public buildings. The appropriations for like purposes made by the congress immediately preceding the Fifty-third ranged from six to nine millions. The public building bills introduced into the house also during the first session of the Fifty-third congress, and appropriations aggregating $32,641,000, and the committee on public buildings gave its sanction to bills carrying appropriations ranging from $50,000 up to several millions, and aggregating $15,714,000. About one-half of these bills passed both houses of congress during the first session, while during the second session the aggregate appropriation for public buildings was about $1,000,000.

Cleveland [illegible]

OGDEN, March 8.—The galleries were crowded again last night to hear the renewed debate on Sir Richard Cartwright's resolution calling upon the government to immediately take steps to secure from the United States a conclusion that the United States will be willing to enter into more extended reciprocity with Canada. Sir Charles Tupper, minister of marine and fisheries, defended the policy of the government and declared that it would be the duty of the friends of the government to vote the resolution down. He asked whether Canada was going to beg for a treaty. Charlton answered the resolution and declared that the policy of the government would drive Canada to petition for political separation from England with a view to a union with the United States as was done in 1849.

Railroad Contract Awa[illegible]

BOISE CITY, KAS., March 8.—The contract for the construction of the Omaha, Dodge City and Southern railroad from this place to Superior, Neb., a distance of 200 miles, has been awarded to J. W. Summers, a prominent railroad contractor of Keokuk, Iowa. The road is to be completed and in operation on or before December 1st. The company proposes at an early day to push an extension of the same line of railroad south into the cattle grazing county, as well as southwest, penetrating the region of enormous coal deposits of south Colorado. The route taken by this road will make it the shortest and most direct line to Chicago and the markets of the east from the southwest.

Counterfeiters Caught

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., March 8.—The United States marshal arrested in Conway county yesterday Martin Thorp and Wm. Cooper, the leaders of the most extensive gang of counterfeiters in the southwest. The officers have been on the track of these men for months. An immense number of bogus money, comprising $5, $10 and $20 imitation gold pieces were also secured. Over one dozen persons are implicated, including some well known people of Perry and Saline counties. Thorp and Garner have been bound over. The arrests caused a great sensation.

[illegible] Decision

DENVER, March 8.—Senators Podd and Bailey, and Representatives Ebbert, Davidson and Weston, the joint committee appointed by the legislature to attend the convention of delegates from the various states called to meet at St. Louis next Tuesday for the purpose of securing joint action by legislatures affecting the "beef combine" of meat, leave here to-morrow morning in a special car. They will return by way of Chicago, where they will thoroughly investigate matters pertaining to the "beef combines."

The Alton [illegible]

CHICAGO, March 8.—The boycott of the eastern trunk lines against the Chicago and Alton railroad in passenger traffic on account of the quarrel over the payment of commissions by the latter will be lifted to-day. The fight of the trunk lines against the Alton has been long and bitter and the surrender is looked upon as an inducement to the Alton to withdraw the agents it has stationed in the east and to abide by the action of the trunk lines.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—In the United States supreme court to-day ex-Attorney General Garland introduced to the court his associate, Wm. H. H. Miller, and the latter's association was placed on record.

People Badly Frightened by Rocking of the Earth.

Very Perceptible Trembling. But no Damage Reported.

Severe Earthquake Shock

BALTIMORE, March 8.—Reports from towns throughout the northern and western portions of Maryland give accounts of a severe earthquake shock that was felt about 7 30 o'clock to-night.

HARRISBURG, PA., March 8.—There was a distinct earthquake shock felt this morning between six and seven in this city and vicinity.

WILMINGTON, DEL., March 8.—What is believed to have been an earthquake shock was noticed here about 6 45 this evening. The shock lasted three seconds and was from west to east.

READING, PA., March 8.—Shortly after 6 30 this evening persons residing in this section experienced a strange rocking and trembling of the earth which is believed to have been caused by an earthquake. It was felt very distinctly on the South mountain in this county and at other points in Berks, Lancaster and Lebanon counties. No damage is reported.

YORK, PA., March 8.—A pronounced earthquake shock was felt here this evening at 6 40 o'clock which had the effect of frightening nearly everybody in the city.

LANCASTER, PA., March 8.—Two pronounced earthquake shocks were felt here this evening about 6 40 o'clock. The buildings rocked and people ran out of the houses. Reports from points in the country show that the shock was very perceptible.

A[illegible] on D. & R. G.

DENVER, March 8.—The east-bound express train on the Rio Grande railroad was derailed six miles west of Gunnison at six o'clock this morning by a broken rail. The engine and the three rear coaches were thrown from the track. The rear coach caught fire and the passengers escaped by crawling their way through the roof of the car with an axe. No one in this car was injured, but in the two forward cars some eighteen or twenty passengers were more or less injured but none seriously.

Railroad [illegible]

ST. LOUIS, March 8.—To night the committee of general managers of the lines in the inter state railway association considered the report of a special committee which favored the continuance of the northern, northwestern and southwestern sections of the present western freight association, additional territory to be given to each. This recommendation was favorably received, as was one favoring the formation of a third association, to be known as the Trans Missouri association, the latter to have charge of the business west of the Missouri river and of the making of rates on Colorado and Utah traffic east and west bound. The above plan for organization was referred to the committee for complete details and submit rules and regulations for the government of the traffic in the several subdivisions. Another committee was appointed to prepare and submit a plan for an organization of the association to govern the entire passenger traffic.

Governor [illegible]

CHARLESTON, W. VA., March 8.—The arguments in the gubernatorial case began this morning in the supreme court. The position taken by the counsel for Governor Wilson is that a declaration of the results is absolutely necessary to give General Goff the title and that without such declaration no court has the right to declare him governor and that the whole matter is in the hands of the legislature. The republican side insisted that the people have elected Goff and that a certificate has been sent up to show it and that if the legislature did not do its duty the court must see that justice is done.

[illegible] Seekers.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—An Indiana delegation called on the president this morning and urged that ex Congressman Johnson of Indiana, who was defeated for election last November, be made commissioner of pensions. Other candidates for this office are Corporal Tanner of New York, General Brooke of Cincinnati, and Private Vaughan of Iowa. A Pacific coast delegation called on the president in the interest of General Swift of California. It is said that they are as yet undecided what office they want for General Swift.

W[illegible] the G[illegible]

LEADVILLE, March 8.—The D. & R. G. and the Western railroads have placed with the North Chicago rolling mills an order for the first lot of heavy steel rails in furtherance of their plans for widening their gauge and furnishing a neutral connection from Colorado to Salt Lake City and Ogden on equal terms to all lines east and west of the Rocky mountains and of uniform gauge with them.

[illegible] Gas [illegible]

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Secretary Whitney left Washington for New York this morning. All of the chiefs of bureaus of the navy department and many personal friends were at the station to say farewell.

Secretary and Mrs. Fairchild left Washington this afternoon for New York and ex Secretary Endicott also started for Boston.

Int[illegible] Growing.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 8.—Interest in the gold mines in the Santa Clara valley in lower California grows. Trains leaving Los Angeles to day for San Diego were loaded with people bound for the mines. Many of the conservative people are among those that have started for the fields.

New Officials.

SANTA FE, N. M., March 8.—The new board of managers of the penitentiary met to day and elected H. C. Burnett superintendent, J. M. Montoya assistant superintendent, R. H. Longwill physician, and J. H. Defouri chaplain.

WASHINGTON, March 8.—Harrison appears to be differently from Cleveland as possible. Yesterday he rode the length of Pennsylvania avenue in an open carry and to-day he walked down the avenue a mile where the plum trees were in the [illegible].

Three Men Perish

KANSAS CITY, MO., March 8.—Henry Stech, hostler in the employ of the Metropolitan Cable company, whose stables were burned on Wednesday night, states it as his opinion that three men perished in the fire. They went into the stable ahead of him for the purpose of saving some of the mules and he is positive that not one of them got out. He himself was rescued in a fainting condition. It will be some time before the debris can be cleared away sufficiently to ascertain whether or not there were any lives lost.

Colorado Legislature.

SENATE.

DENVER, March 8.—In the senate to day S. B. No. 277, to regulate the coin circulation of dams for the purpose of retaining water, and the senate bill providing for the state ownership of ditches, together with several other bills of much import, were reported adversely by committees and indefinitely postponed.

S. B. No. 218, for an act regulating the purchase of ore passed, and the senate bill concerning the mesne asylum and making appropriation therefor was recommitted to the committee on state institutions.

The senate then resumed consideration of the railroad bill in committee of the whole, and at the hour for adjourning not having concluded its consideration it was postponed until next Friday.

HOUSE.

The house transacted considerable committee work but passed no bills of general importance.

Stock Market.

NEW YORK, March 8.—The dullness in the stock market was more marked to day than at any time in the present year and the fluctuations were strictly upon a par with the business done, the final results of the day's transactions being entirely insignificant except in a few isolated cases.

Weekly R[illegible] of Tr[illegible]

NEW YORK, March 8.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The failure of an important iron establishment has checked, as it did for the moment, a feeling of increasing confidence which seems to have been due less to an increase in demand than to a decrease in the disposition to sell. At Philadelphia and New York more doing though without advance, but the Reading failure has so changed the feeling that buyers are likely to be considerably cautious in bar iron and in plate there is no improvement. Rails are unchanged and are weak, and the market for structural iron is slow.

The coal market is also so despondent that a meeting of the companies is expected next Tuesday. It is said to reduce the schedule of prices. The market for bituminous coal is dull. The anthracite syndicate is supposed to have been much relieved by the decision of the American mines to reduce their output from 15 to 20 per cent. In February however the syndicate had to take 10,000 tons, while the sales were only 1397 tons and an outlay of $2,500,000 per month must ultimately prove trying. The price of copper here declined only to 15½ cents for March but the fluctuations at Boston were severe. In pig there was not much change. Lead is inactive at 3.7 cents.

Oil has risen a fraction and coffee has again been advanced nearly 1 per cent and the market for pork products is stronger with mess pork fifty cents higher at $12 50. After declining sharply to 94½ a fall of three cents, wheat rose to 96 on Thursday but declined a half cent on Friday. The decline was due to further increase of the large stocks remaining, the stock of Dakota alone according to the latest figures being about eleven million bushels, but on Thursday there was a quick advance. Corn and oats have rallied to half a cent each with but moderate transactions. The price of cotton has been maintained. The reports from Cuba helped an advance of 1 cents in raw sugar, but leather is again a shade weaker for some grades and the tone of the wool market is depressed by the continued decrease of manufacturers and the reports that the spring clip is likely to show an increase of 20 per cent.

Reports from interior towns generally indicate improvement in the volume of business and in the demand for money which is still however in ample supply at nearly all points for legitimate demands. Reports of slow collections continue. The rate of foreign exchange remains unaltered, though money has been rather dear during the past week. The treasury has only taken in $200,000 more than it paid out and the out go to the interior has continued, but withdrawals from Europe do not appear as yet. The stock market has been dull, irregular and somewhat depressed. Transactions have been mainly confined to the traders on the floor and the hope of success in organizing the inter state compact still sustains holders. The general average of prices for commodities has declined during the week about a third of one per cent. The business failures number 281 as compared with a total of 252 last week and 220 the week previous; for the corresponding week of last year the figures were 238.

The new schools which have just been established at Cascade, Green Mountain Falls and Manitou Park will be opened during the coming week.

H. M. STEELE,
Manager and Editor.

General Harrison in his inaugural address gives a timely warning to office seekers when he says, "persistent importunity will not be the best support of an application for office."

It has long been a practice for people throughout the country to send all manner of presents to a newly elected president of the United States. As far back as Washington's time this practice was in vogue, but it has never assumed the proportions that it has reached since General Harrison was elected. The president has in the past few months received over 4000 presents, including everything from a stuffed bird to a carved bedstead. In the infancy of the republic a few good people of the country sent some little offering to the president as a means of showing their devotion to the chief executive. Now, every crank in the country seems to consider it necessary to present the occupant of the White House with either a double headed calf or a log cabin weighing a ton or two, or something equally monstrous. What was once a harmless practice has now become an unspeakable nuisance. If people before loading down a car load cabin weighing several tons and addressing it to General Harrison will stop a minute to think what General Harrison is to do with the veritable white elephant which he gets it, perhaps a part of this foolish practice may be done away with.

The new attorney general is not known of all the gentlemen who will act as Harrison's advisers for the next four years. Mr. Miller has long been a warm friend of the president, and for that reason is generally regarded as the latter's personal representative in the cabinet. W. H. H. Miller was born in Oneida county, New York. His father was a farmer and the boy's early education was somewhat limited. He took advantage of the opportunities offered by the district school, when he could be spared from clothing on the farm, which was only a few months in the year. In 1857 young Miller's father consented to his son's long expressed desire to enter college, and placed him in Hamilton college, from which institution he graduated four years later with high honors. On leaving college he studied law and was admitted to the bar in Clinton, N. Y., and soon after removed to Indianapolis, where some six years ago he entered into partnership with Benjamin Harrison, now president of the United States. Mr. Miller has never been regarded as a powerful orator or debater, his chief power lying in his knowledge of the law and his keen perception. He is said to be a man of much force of character. He has never taken any part in politics, not even in the late campaign, in the result of which he was personally as much interested as any other man.

It is to be sincerely hoped that action on the two memorials now before the general assembly looking toward the establishment of a national park in this state will not be unnecessarily delayed. The benefits which not only Colorado but the whole country would derive from the park are apparent. One of the memorials now before the assembly asks the president to withdraw the land proposed to be used for the park from sale or entry until the necessary congressional action can be had and the other petitions congress to set aside the lands for the purpose of a national park. There seems to be no good reason for any opposition to either of these memorials whereas there is every reason for immediate favorable action on them. The Denver Republican yesterday morning ridiculed the following descriptive portion of one of the memorials:

"The lands are heavily timbered with spruce, pine, cedar, aspen and other varieties, and dense growths of underbrush, vines and shrubbery. There are many cascades, beautiful streams, and some circles that find their source from the perpetual snows lodged in the abundant timber on upon the peaks of the plateau, which flow into the Grand, Lacopa and White rivers, as also innumerable small and very fine lakes, all well stocked with fish, principally trout. Game abounds such as deer, elk, antelope, mountain sheep, black bear, mountain lions, etc., as well as small game. Into this tract the year round, making it the best hunting ground in the state. If not in the lofty mountain peaks and rugged cañons and valleys in this section, which are covered with the finest woods, there are many living springs, lakes and running streams to render it an extremely beautiful and picturesque spot, especially well calculated for a National park. The mountains herein described are not all of arable land, and being at an altitude of from 10,000 to 13,000 feet above the sea, cannot be used for agricultural purposes.

It will be seen from this description that the White river plateau, the proposed site of the park, is admirably suited for the purpose."

In his inaugural address, General Harrison altogether rejects the suggestion of a special executive policy for any section of our country. He has no northern policy, nor a southern, eastern or western policy. But he has a duty to perform, and that is to see that all laws are enforced in all sections so far as lies within his power. While he denies the right of the executive to elect what laws he may enforce or in what section he may enforce them he also denies the right of any citizen or community of citizens to elect what laws they may obey. Already some southern papers are declaring that they see in this utterance the forerunner of a crusade against the south. This declaration is worse than nonsense. The principle which General Harrison states is equally applicable in Maine, in California, in Louisiana, in Mississippi or in any other state or territory of the union. If the shoe fits in the north let the north put it on, and if it fits in the south let the south put it on. With regard to law breaking in general the president says:

"The community that is composed in part of those who, for a time, refuse to yield to a portion of its members their just rights under the law, can not but be greatly demoralized. Such a condition of things can not long exist without danger to the life and property of the entire community. It endangers those who, from love of and desire to the faithful observance of the law as a safe guide, find themselves in the minority, and it may even put in peril the life and property of those who are in the majority. Then, too, it is not easy to foresee the consequences to the community of such a condition of things. Our country is so populous, and the interests involved are so diverse, that what may be a matter of little moment to the people of one section may be of the highest importance to those of another, and the sense of injustice and oppression which it may quicken in the latter may be productive of the most serious results. Our system of government is based upon the assumption that the people of the several states are capable of self-government. If the educated and influential citizens of any community shall practically nullify a law they dislike, what can they expect when the law is that of a neighboring community, or when it is a law for which they have themselves voted? Our laws are the product of our own wills. We make them for the government of our own conduct, and when once they are made they must be obeyed until they are changed or repealed. Only by such obedience can we secure the blessings of a well ordered civil life. Our laws are not all what we could wish they should be, but they are the best we can get at the time, and their general character is such that they will bear comparison with those of any other people. Our duty is to see that they are faithfully executed, leaving to the proper time and the proper agencies the work of amendment
